INVITATION

Indian Geotechnical Society, Baroda Chapter is celebrating its silver jubilee year during 2015. To commemorate this occasion, IGS – Baroda Chapter and its associates extend a hearty invitation to the Geotechnical Engineers in the country to participate in the Fifth Indian Young Geotechnical Engineer's Conference (5IYGEC-2015), being held at Vadodara, during 14-15 March, 2015.

The conference provides a platform for young researchers, post-graduate students and professional practitioners below 35 years of age to highlight their research findings and exchange knowledge. However, the conference is open for all age participants to attend and motivate Young Geotechnical Engineers. There will be many invited lectures from distinguished members of academia and industry for the benefit of participants on various themes of Geotechnical Engineering.

Indian Geotechnical Society entrusted IGS-Baroda Chapter for conducting the 5th IYGEC-2015 at Vadodara. The IGS-Baroda Chapter has organized several conferences, workshops, and seminars in the past for the benefit of its members and the society as a whole. The IGS – Baroda chapter is very active and recipient of best chapter award twice in the past.

About Vadodara

Vadodara derives its name from "Vatavruksha" meaning city of Banyan trees. It is also a city of gardens having historical Gaikwadi monuments. Vadodara is well connected by Road, Rail and Air. Vadodara is a major railway junction located on western railway connecting Ahmedabad, Mumbai, Kolkata, Chennai, Bangalore, and Delhi. Airport is also connected by various domestic flights from Delhi, Mumbai and via flights from most other cities.
